Executive Biography

Commercial leadership shaped across multiple sectors and regional markets.

Emad Boles is a commercial management and business development executive based in Kuwait. His career spans more than twenty years across procurement, retail, sales, insurance, financial services, office management and operational leadership.

In his current role, he leads commercial activities linked to government opportunities, international manufacturers, tender submissions and strategic sourcing. His work requires close coordination between public-sector stakeholders, overseas suppliers, technical teams and internal decision-makers.

Earlier in his career, he held leadership roles in the luxury jewellery sector across Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, progressing from Sales Manager to Office Manager. He later expanded his experience in financial services and insurance with Allianz Egypt.

His professional value lies in the ability to operate confidently across cultures, translate market opportunities into executable commercial actions, and maintain disciplined follow-through throughout the business cycle.

“Strong commercial leadership is built on credibility, disciplined execution and relationships that create lasting value.”
